

Leadership Styles for a Changing Church

Leading with your strengths and working creatively with difference

11 - 14 June 2018 | Dromantine Retreat and Conference Centre

Workshop Facilitator

Rev. Hugh Lagan, SMA, Psy.D., is a priest with the Society of African Missions and a clinical psychologist with Saint Luke Institute (USA). He currently is working with Church leadership in southern Africa to develop education and clinical services for clergy and religious.

Change is the primary context in which Christian ministry now takes place. While the timeless values of the Christian message remain constant, new abilities, mindsets and capacities are needed in leaders and pastoral ministers. It begins with unlearning what we know and risking new perspectives.

This skills-based workshop will teach those engaged in pastoral care, ministry, formation, chaplaincy and formal / informal leadership how to:

- build better levels of influence, trust, compassion and collaboration so as to enhance their unique leadership style and strengths
- engage effectively with difficult personalities and work productively with interpersonal conflict
- embrace new relational models of leadership in response to the needs of a changing Church

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

11-14 June 2018 (arrive & depart by 6.00pm) | All inclusive cost: £328.00 or €370.00 (deposit: £50.00 or €60.00)

Registration: NI (028) 308 21964 or ROI (048) 308 21964 | admin@dromantineconference.com

Dromantine Conference and Retreat Centre, Newry, County Down, Northern Ireland | www.dromantineconference.com